

Louis XV style fireplace with trumeau and sculpted fleur-de-lis lintel.

Antique fireplace made of stone from Charente (French department) with stonework trumeau. The originality behind this Louis XV style fireplace is that its lintel was nicely decorated with a sculpted shield centered by a sculpted fleur-de-lis. Bolection mold jambs and thin molded shelf. The elegant opening is surrounded by a large round molding running along the frame of the hearth.
